Demographic Change & Innovation

Challenges and Opportunities for Business, Politics and Society

Organised by the World Demographic & Ageing Forum

WELCOME TO THE WORLD AGEING & GENERATIONS CONGRESS

'Each year at the WDA Forum in St. Gallen we aim to contribute to a better understanding of a new form of society of all ages that is taking shape. Our intent is to link demographic transition to a vision that is not based on threat, but on an experience of longevity that is positively integrated and embedded in people's lives.'

(Professor Dr. Ilona Kickbusch, Chairperson of the World Ageing & Generations Congress)

What should future healthcare services and systems in the different parts of the world look like? What effect do the changing demographics have on the financial markets? What are the underlying factors of ageing well, and how can we translate these into practical solutions to enhance the well-being of older people around the world? What next steps must be taken to protect the human rights of older people? What can we learn from rapidly ageing countries like Japan? What are the biggest challenges for the youth generation in, for example, the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region? These are but a few of the intricate and timely questions that will be addressed at the 7th World Ageing & Generations Congress 2011.

The aims of the World Ageing & Generations Congress are to bring the upcoming demographic change into focus, assemble thoughtful and influential leaders, and discuss the challenges of the ageing world population. Lively sessions and compelling panel discussions will explore the impact of the demographic change on three focus areas: "Policy & Development", "Business & Society", "Life & Health" .

The Congress is an international and interdisciplinary platform used by decision-makers from all spheres of society and by a general audience that is fascinated by, intrigued with, and concerned about the consequences of global demographic shifts. Therefore, it is not only an educational event, but also insightful and thought-provoking.

Opening Ceremony

Tuesday August 30, 2011 09:00 - 11:00

Opening Thomas Bieger, President of the University of St. Gallen, Switzerland
 Ilona Kickbusch, Chairperson of the World Ageing & Generations Congress

Opening Plenary Panel: Seven Billion and Growing: Population Growth Meets Population Ageing

In this session, members of World Economic Forum's Global Agenda Council on Population Growth and Global Agenda Council on Ageing will discuss the nature and interplay of these complex demographic issues, as well as policy strategies to address them. They will also discuss the role and responsibility of individuals, businesses, and public policymakers in facing these challenges, as well as the options they have, singly, collectively, and globally. Emphasis will be placed on cross-national heterogeneity in the dimensions of current and future demographic challenges, the success of past interventions, and on identifying new ideas for coping strategies.

Chair: Ilona Kickbusch, Director, Global Health Programme, Graduate Institute Geneva, Switzerland

Introduction: David E. Bloom, Clarence James Gamble Professor of Economics and Demography, Harvard School of Public Health, USA

Panellists: Isabella Aboderin, Senior Research Fellow, Oxford Institute of Population Ageing, University of Oxford, UK, and IAGG Regional Chair for Africa

Simon Biggs, Professor of Gerontology and Social Policy, School of Social & Political Science, University of Melbourne, Australia

Nicholas H. Eberstadt, Henry Wendt Scholar in Political Economy, American Enterprise Institute (AEI), USA

Emanuel Jimenez, Director, Human Development, East Asia and Pacific Region and Editor, World Bank Research Observer, World Bank, USA

Plenary Panel I

Tuesday August 30, 2011 11:30 - 13:00

Focus III: Life & Health

Demography Meets Health – The Future of Health Care in the Developed and Developing World

The objective of this panel is to explore what health care services and systems should look like in the different parts of the world. The role of caregivers and suppliers, the demand for healthcare in the different regions of the world, the innovations needed and the way of financing healthcare will be discussed.

Chair: Chris Singleton, Director Medical Insurance Europe, Swiss Re, Switzerland

Panellists: Luiz Augusto Facchini, President, ABRASCO - Brazilian Association of Collective Health, Brazil

Cornelia Meyer, CEO MRL Corporation, London, UK

Sania Nishtar, Founder and President of Heartfile, Pakistan

Jack Watters, Vice-President for External Medical Affairs at Pfizer, USA

Sponsored and organised by Pfizer

Chris Singleton

Plenary Panel II

Tuesday August 30, 2011 16:30 - 18:00

Focus III: Life & Health

Demography Meets Successful and Healthy Ageing

The focus of the plenary panel will be the "Ageing Well" framework, developed by the Active Aging think tank of The Philips Center for Health and Well-being. The panellists will discuss different factors, such as technology, health systems, and personal resilience enhancement that can play a role in keeping elders engaged and independent as they move through life's transitions.

Chair: William D. Novelli, Professor, McDonough School of Business, Georgetown University, USA

Panellists: Nicola Bedlington, Director of the European Patients Forum, Belgium
Gerard van Spaendonck, SSVP & GM Home Monitoring, Philips, USA
Leonard Marcus, Harvard School of Public Health (HSPH), USA
Jeffrey L. Sturchio, President and CEO, Global Health Council, USA

Sponsored and organised by Philips

William D. Novelli

Plenary Panel III

Wednesday August 31, 2011 11:00 - 12:30

Focus I: Policy & Development

Demography Meets Europe – Will Europe be Prepared and Able to Retire?

With the upcoming "European Year of Active Ageing" in 2012, the European Union has made addressing demographic change a policy priority. Since both health and investment in health play an essential role with regard to a sustainable development of society and an increase of productivity, this plenary session addresses the future challenges with a specific focus on health.

Chair: David E. Bloom, Clarence James Gamble Professor of Economics and Demography, Harvard School of Public Health, USA

Panellists: Gertjan Baars, Director Local Government Information Management & Head of the Global Center of Excellence On Ageing, PwC, PriceWaterhouseCoopers Advisory, The Netherlands
Wojciech Dziworski, Head of Sector „Innovation and healthy ageing“, European Commission (DG SANCO), Belgium
Per Eckefeldt, Deputy Head of Unit, European Commission (DG ECFIN), Sustainability of Public Finances, Belgium
Klaus-Dirk Henke, Professor, Technische Universität Berlin, Germany

Sponsored and organised by MSD

David E. Bloom

Plenary Panel IV

Thursday September 1, 2011 11:00 - 12:30

Focus II: Business & Society

Demography Meets Financial Markets – The Impact of the Financial Crisis on Investing and the Future of Retirement Funding

The financial crisis had a profound impact on institutional investors, the sustainability of the fiscal state, and the course of financial innovation. These three interrelated topics give rise to a number of questions: Has the fiscal state reached its limit? Can it no longer hold the pension promise, given the rapidly exploding debt levels? Moreover, what is the role of financial markets in emerging countries? This panel submerges on these pertinent questions.

Chair: Daniel Hofmann, Economic Counsellor, International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS), Switzerland

Panellists: Kenneth Apfel, Professor, University of Maryland's School of Public Policy, USA
Cecilia Reyes, Chief Investment Officer, Zurich Financial Services, Switzerland
Klaus W. Wellershoff, CEO/Partner, Wellershoff & Partners Ltd., Switzerland

Organised by the WDA Forum Network

Daniel Hofmann

Plenary Panel V

Thursday September 1, 2011 12:30 - 13:30

Focus III: Life & Health

Demography Meets Society – Ways to Implement Healthy Ageing

This plenary panel highlights the various challenges as well as opportunities with increasing numbers of older persons in our society. Opportunities not only remain in further research advancement on diseases such as Alzheimer's and Dementia, but also in comprehensive model of the society, i.e., promotion of Age-Friendly Cities. Such environment is especially suitable seeing that the global population of people aged 60 and over will increase to 1.2 billion in 2025 and 2 billion by 2050.

Chair: Ilona Kickbusch, Director, Global Health Programme, Graduate Institute Geneva, Switzerland

Panellists: John Beard, Director of the Department of Ageing and Life Course (ALC), World Health Organization (WHO), Switzerland
Ruth Finkelstein, New York Academy of Medicine, USA
Martin Prince, Professor of Epidemiological Psychiatry, Institute of Psychiatry, King's College London, UK

Organised by the World Health Organization (WHO)

Parallel Special Sessions I

Tuesday August 30, 2011 14:30 - 16:00

Focus I: Policy & Development

Transnational Aspects of Caregiving

Many caregivers migrate from Central and Eastern Europe to Western Europe. The ageing Western European societies need these extra care workers. The debate has always been strongly focused on how to integrate these migrants. But what effect does this have on the sending countries? What does it imply regarding the healthcare system of these sending countries, given the fact that their caregivers are looking for better opportunities abroad? What happens to their families?

Chair: Rainer Münz

Panellists: Petra Ezzeddine, Vitalija Gaucaite Wittich, Martina Sekulova, Alissa Tolstokorova

Sponsored and organised by the ERSTE Foundation

Focus II: Business & Society

Work & Care: Reconciling Employment and Family Caregiving

Although combining employment and family duties is on the political agenda in Switzerland, working caregivers have only recently gained attention. Careum Research & Development is undertaking projects to develop research, policies, and practices on ways to combine and balance work and care. This workshop will highlight challenges and solutions for companies, authorities, NGOs, and health care facilities.

Chair: Iren Bischofberger

Panellists: Kathrin Amacker-Amann, Wolfgang Keck, Birgitta Martensson

Organised by the Careum Foundation

Focus III: Life & Health

An Ageing Society and the Implications for Oncology

In the coming two decades – due to the ageing of the population – more people will be diagnosed with cancer. With the recent growth of the population of older persons, a number of pressing but unanswered biological and clinical questions must be addressed. This session will provide a glimpse into a possible scenario of 2030 and offer insights into strategies in northern Europe and Switzerland to prepare for the increasing burden of the disease.

Chair: Thomas Cerny

Panellists: Matthias Bopp, Carlos Quinto, Nils Wilking

Sponsored and organised by Pfizer

Focus III: Life & Health

Ageing, Functioning and Health Services (1st Part of a Two-Part Series)

These panels will review, from multiple perspectives, the projected health and social challenges associated with ageing. There are two cross-cutting issues that each panel will explore, first issues of ageing with a spinal cord lesion for concreteness, and second the need to understand, describe, and ultimately assess and measure dimensions of functioning and disability in order to understand both the ageing phenomenon and predicting the health and social resource consequences of ageing.

Chair: Jerome Bickenbach

Panellists: John Beard, Holger Bonin, Yu-Ying Chen

Sponsored and organised by the Swiss Paraplegics Foundation

Focus I: Policy & Development

Human Rights of Older Persons: What Needs to be Done?

The aims of this special session are to present evidence on the state of human rights of older persons around the world, to discuss the possible gaps in the international framework, and to highlight what measures need to be taken.

Chair: Alexandre Kalache

Panellists: Jane Barratt, Rosemary Lane, Laura Machado, Anne-Sophie Parent

Organised by the WDA Forum Network

Focus II: Business & Society

Rethink Retirement: Individual and Collective Values of the Transition to Retirement

With the baby boomer generation approaching retirement age, all major countries in the developed world will face a massive transition from employees to retirees. What implications does this have for the individual? Research shows that retirement's "empty desk" effect will be a challenge for many workers. Furthermore, companies will lose a tremendous amount of knowledge and experience. Do these resources really have to be lost or can society benefit from this neglected expertise?

Chair: Erhard Hackler

Panellists: Jim Emerman, Uwe Kleinemas, Frank Leyhausen, Catherine Wijnberg

In cooperation with the German Senior Citizens League (DSL)

Focus III: Life & Health

Demography and the Challenges of Alzheimer's Disease

The World Alzheimer Report 2010 explored the social cost of dementia. The Report contains an explanation of the methods used, detailed results for different economic and geographic regions, and offers conclusions and recommendations in the final section.

Chair: Marc Wortmann

Panellists: Sally-Marie Bamford, Michael Hodin, Martin Prince

In cooperation with Alzheimer's Disease International (ADI)

Focus III: Life & Health

Ageing and Functioning: Ageing and Spinal Cord Lesion (2nd Part of a Two-Part Series)

These panels will review, from multiple perspectives, the projected health and social challenges associated with ageing. There are two cross-cutting issues that each panel will explore, first issues of ageing with a spinal cord lesion for concreteness, and second the need to understand, describe, and ultimately assess and measure dimensions of functioning and disability in order to understand both the ageing phenomenon and predicting the health and social resource consequences of ageing.

Chair: Gerold Stucki

Panellists: Somnath Chatterji, Marcel Post, Sara Rubinelli

Sponsored and organised by the Swiss Paraplegics Foundation

Parallel Special Sessions III

Wednesday August 31, 2011 14:00 - 15:30

Focus I: Policy & Development

Alterspolitik in der Schweiz und deren Umsetzung / Swiss Ageing Policies and Practices

(Session in German with English translation)

Ohne politische Verankerung keine nachhaltige Umsetzung!

Die drei Beiträge dieser Special Session geben Antwort auf folgende Fragen: Welches sind die alterspolitischen Voraussetzungen für eine erfolgreiche, nachhaltige Umsetzung? Gibt es Beispiele für eine Erfolg versprechende Umsetzung in den Kantonen oder Gemeinden?

Chair: Ralph Marc Steinmann

Panellists: René Künzli, Caroline Moor, Bettina Schulte-Abel

Sponsored and organised by Health Promotion Switzerland (Gesundheitsförderung Schweiz)

Focus II: Business & Society

Business Models for Living with Services

Even though extensive efforts have been devoted to identifying and developing solutions that enable older people to live independently while maintaining a high quality of life, only a few business ideas have succeeded. The special session identifies the factors that determine the business success of "living with services" as a combined offer of accommodation and individualized (supportive) services.

Chair: Charles Reed

Panellists: Paul Fritz, Maja Konrad, Laurent Christian Nicolas, Hubert Österle, Walter Schärer

Sponsored and organised by AARP, in cooperation with the Competence Centre for Independent Living, University of St. Gallen

Focus II: Business & Society

New Directions in the Employment of Older Workers: Lessons from Japan

With its rapidly ageing and shrinking population, Japan has been the most severely affected country by demographic change. Companies face a looming workforce crisis in the form of a potential labour shortage and knowledge loss as experienced employees in the large baby boom cohort retire. At the same time, Japan has one of the highest labour force participation rates of older people worldwide. What can we learn from Japan?

Chair: Florian Kohlbacher

Panellists: Carolin Eitner, Yoshihiko Hisada, Masao Maekawa, Yashiro Naohiro

Organised by the German Institute for Japanese Studies (DIJ)

Focus III: Life & Health

Health Promotion and Disease Prevention in Times of Demographic Change

Based on current experiences, this session will examine the expected benefits of immunization on an ageing population. Are vaccines cost-effective in promoting and sustaining healthy ageing? What must be done from a societal perspective to support vaccine use among elderly people? The panel will highlight the benefits of immunization.

Chair: John Beard

Panellists: Jean-Pierre Michel, Anna Vettori

Sponsored and organised by MSD

Focus I: Policy & Development

A Global Picture on Health and Ageing from the WHO Network on Ageing

This session will be an opportunity to hear about the latest initiatives on health and ageing from around the world. The WHO focal points on ageing from the American, European, Eastern Mediterranean, African, South East Asian and Western Pacific Regions will summarize what has been happening and what is planned for the future, followed by a discussion with the audience and the WHO global team.

Chair: John Beard

Panellists: Said Arnaout, Anjana Bhushan, Enrique Vega Garcia, Manfred Huber
(regional leaders of WHO's Ageing and Life Courses from all over the world)

Organised by the World Health Organization (WHO)

Focus I: Policy & Development

The Youth Bulge and the Demographic Dividend in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) Region

The MENA region is at a point of the demographic transition where the demographic dividend can be reaped. The relatively large labour force and relatively small portion of the population has great potential to promote economic growth and prosperity. The implications, challenges and opportunities for the diversity of countries within the MENA region will be reviewed and discussed.

Chair: Nabil M. Kronfol

Panellists: Ebba Augustin, Nicholas H. Eberstadt, Emmanuel Jimenez, Elham Manea

Organised by the WDA Forum Network

Focus II: Business & Society

Financial Implications of Increased Longevity

Longevity is rising; as are the dangers it causes for public and private retirement savings. Mitigating this longevity risk can only be achieved through a combination of measures, including: a better understanding of longevity trend drivers, such as lifestyle trends and medical advances; promoting best case structural savings incentives; developing financial sector products allowing transfer of mortality risk, as re/insurance companies are now doing; and rethinking retirement patterns.

Chair: Daniel Ryan

Panellists: Dalmer Hoskins, Stephen Kramer, Lukas Steinmann

Sponsored and organised by Swiss Re

Focus III: Life & Health

Health, Driving and Transport

Transportation is an important component of social inclusion and well-being for older people. In contrast to previous attitudes which prioritised risk over mobility, current thinking and practice promotes the optimisation of mobility for older people. This session will describe new approaches for conceptualisation of transport and ageing, new techniques, and innovative practices to join the social economy with the transport system to develop personalised and age-sensitive approaches.

Chair: Desmond O'Neill

Panellists: Liisa Hakamies-Blomqvist, Katherine Freund

Organised by the European Union Geriatric Medicine Society (EUGMS)

Workshops

Wednesday August 31, 2011 16:00 - 17:30

Focus I: Policy & Development

Advancing Evidence Generation on Older Persons in sub-Saharan Africa

A lack of broad national-level evidence on the situation of older persons in key areas such as health, employment, economic well-being, migration, intergenerational ties and social participation is a major barrier to progress in policy action on ageing in Africa. A newly launched three country initiative (Kenya, Namibia, Nigeria) seeks to advance the generation of national evidence on older persons through the development of systematic extensions to analysis protocols, instruments and/or samples of key national surveys routinely undertaken by SSA countries. This interactive session will introduce, and invite critical discussion of the project's rationale and approach with a view to strengthening its relevance at national, regional and international levels.

Presenter: Isabella Aboderin, Janet Ananias, Evaristus Ekezie, Paul Kizito, Thomas Klie, Vane Lumumba, Ojogun Osifu, Sapalov Quita, Thokozile Ruzvidzo

In cooperation with the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC)

Focus I: Policy & Development

Tailoring Health Care Systems to Population Ageing

In this workshop Desmond O'Neill, Professor and President EUGMS, Ireland will provide an overview of the many advances in the science of ageing and help participants to understand how conditions previously seen as un-treatable – such as frailty – can be addressed with increasing effectiveness.

Presenter: Desmond O'Neill

Organised by the European Union Geriatric Medicine Society (EUGMS)

Focus II: Business & Society

Generationen-Management in Schweizer Unternehmen / Generation Management in CH Companies (Workshop in German with English translation)

Alternde Belegschaften, Fachkräftemangel sowie Verlust von Erfahrungswissen sind zentrale zukünftige Herausforderungen für viele Unternehmen. Mitarbeitende sollen länger gesund, leistungsfähig und motiviert im Erwerbsleben gehalten und Ressourcen, die im Miteinander der Generationen liegen, erschlossen werden. Wie können Unternehmen diese Herausforderungen bewältigen?

Presenter: Jürg Aemmer, Therese Peverelli, Bettina Schulte-Abel, Martina Zölch

Sponsored and organised by Health Promotion Switzerland (Gesundheitsförderung Schweiz)

Focus II: Business & Society

Leisure and Tourism in Later Life

After retirement leisure activities become an important part of life as a source of personal meaning and continuing social integration. Research shows that leisure activity contributes to physical and psychological well-being in later life. Tourism, in particular, may contribute to continuing personal development and life satisfaction and/or to the well being of the host community; but it may also be devoid of these benefits. Knowledge of the conditions most likely to bring about personal and community benefits with tourism and other leisure activities in later life will aid in the development of retirement planning practices and resource provision in both public and private sectors.

Presenter: Douglas Kleiber, Galit Nimrod

Golden Ages

Do you want to know what you look like in 20 years?

The exhibition "Golden Ages" deals with the topic of healthy ageing. One highlight of the exhibition is the morphing station which makes it possible to take age photos of visitors in a few minutes. The morphing station creates a three-dimensional model of the visitor which can be altered to look older or younger. The morphing station was developed by the Max-Planck-Institut in Germany. There is another station with a bio test where visitors can calculate their biological age, which is based on lifestyle and is influenced by positive factors like sports participation and negative factors like smoking.

In addition, there are three fitness stations where visitors can assess their strength, endurance and flexibility and calculate their body mass index (BMI). The whole interactive exhibition delivers information about how to live a healthy life and prevent age-related diseases.

SOCIAL EVENING "RHEANTLER OABÄT" – VINERY TOBIAS SCHMID & SOHN

Wednesday, August 31, 2011

The sunny and steep landscape in the Swiss Rheintal (Eastern Switzerland) has been covered with vineyards for centuries. In 1866, Tobias Schmid founded a winery in the lovely Swiss landscape of Berneck. Five generations later, his family still runs the winery. The biggest part of the vineyard is planted with pinot noir vines. Other famous grape varieties like Riesling-Sylvaner, Chardonnay, Merlot and Baco Noir are also planted there.

The cosy and traditional vine dresser house was originally a farmer's house and each generation of the family developed it. Little details of the past can be discovered everywhere, making the whole house a treasure chest of old times. On the upper level of the house, visitors will be served delicious and local delicacies as well as wine directly from the family's own wine cellar.

Evening Programme

- Drive from the University of St. Gallen to Berneck on an official Swiss Post bus
- View the vineyard and the wine cellar
- Traditional, local dinner accompanied by Swiss "Kapelle Pfauenhalde"
- Short talk by a wine expert
- Drive back to the hotels and main station in St. Gallen

A WARM WELCOME TO ST. GALLEN

Lovely Landscape

The St. Gallen-Lake Constance Region has everything expected of an attractive metropolitan region. Nestled between Lake Constance and the rolling Appenzell region, the 'Gallus City' not only offers a lovely landscape but also the historically significant Stift District (monastery district) with its world renowned Abbey Library and cathedral (a UNESCO World Heritage Site). There is also a wealth of other sightseeing attractions: ornate oriel windows, monumental art nouveau buildings and varied and manifold examples of modern architecture.

Leisure

After sessions, take a break in one of the street cafes or cosy 'first floor' restaurants. Linger in the 'City Lounge' designed by the artists Pipilotti Rist and Carlos Martinez, where a red carpet spreads out between the buildings, and hanging lamps give off a warm glow.

Diverse Museums

The wide choice of museums and the cultural scene is also impressive: the unique Textile Museum, Art Museum, Sankt Gallen Art Hall, Natural History Museum, History & Ethnology Museum, Museum in the Warehouse, St. Gallen Theatre, Lokremise and Tonhalle offer a feast of fascinating exhibitions and performances of unique charisma.

ABOUT THE WDA FORUM

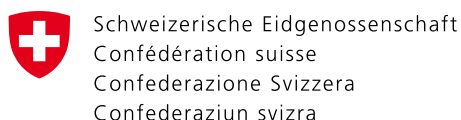

The World Demographic and Ageing Forum (WDA Forum) recognises that demographic change presents not only a formidable challenge, but more importantly a unique opportunity. Only through an integrated approach can sustainable solutions to an ageing population be developed. We thus place an interdisciplinary emphasis on the societal, economic, health and educational-political impacts of these foreseeable changes. It is to this purpose that we have established an international, inter-generational, and permanent forum for questions pertaining to ageing and generations, offering the possibility for a worldwide coordination of efforts and activities on a range of topics.
